One of the J-Class legends is for sale and charter. Indeed, SHAMROCK V is much more than one of the legends, she is the origin of the legend. Built in 1930 for Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth and last America's Cup challenge, she was designed by Charles Nicholson and remains the only J with a wood hull. One big advantage is that SHAMROCK V never fell into the disrepair that blighted other famous classics. Restoration work at Pendennis means she is in the finest condition of her life.

The piercing, green, teak hull and massive rig, now reconfigured to the original sailplan, have been honed to a competitive edge by Gerald Dijkstra. The interior has gleamingly polished panelling and currently sleeps eight guests in a master, one double and two twins with a superbly authentic, full-beam saloon. The huge advantage is that with SHAMROCK V, the new owner will know exactly what they are getting. The details are meticulously listed and our expert brokers will provide in-depth advice on this important classic. One of the great classic yachts to own and sail, she is a spectacular piece of maritime history.

SHAMROCK V is available through Edmiston & Company for purchase (US$15M) or charter (from €45,000 p/week). Race charter rate is €65,000 p/week.
